Why Nspire?

➔ Don't take our word for it.

"You are being punished for your wickedness," Coyote said to the seven giants. "I will punish you even more by changing you into seven mountains. I will make you very high, so that everyone can see you. You will stand here forever to remind people that punishment comes from wrongdoing." - Nez Perce oral tradition.

Sweat beads off the brim of my cap as I glance back to see how Heather is faring. We crest the last grueling push into our final night's camp and the same lingering thoughts that have possessed me for the last 48 miles continue their disorganized occupation of my mind, driving my step, with the hope that the answer will be revealed under the next rock kicked free from my worn and tiredly placed trekking pole. The trail has been oddly quiet for hours now, the miles push my thoughts deeper with every step traveled. The brutal terrain and elevation gains pry loose the internal demons that the range we circumnavigated is named for. I wonder where Heather's thoughts have taken her, as mine are once again dragged deep within. "You're here for a reason," my subconscious whispers. "Focus, focus," it repeats, as my exhausted legs grudgingly carry me into the Dog Lake basin.

Dropping my gear, I slump to the log and gaze out over the mirrored of the giants begins to release its revelation. hot cocon and Rumpel Minze — rise, adjust our head lamps and set off to mountain home for the Twin I times me. "N I rer recall of this been to lesson that we master from getting into the wilderness right now. Writer and artist Nancy Wynne Newhall states that, "The wilderness holds answers to many questions that we have yet learned to ask." Embracing the beauty of the forest, voluntarily throwing myself into the path into a mountain. Hill, hoisting my body and mind with the weight of the pack and the daily wilderness miles traveled, I begin to see the observational beauty of the mountain. These views drive me forward. Then, I recall a childhood lesson: "Always give to be used in one of two ways — for self-education or for the betterment of others." It is at that moment the answer finally revealed itself. The gift was not something at the trailhead but making it through the wilderness. It was the beautiful realization that the past four days muted society's distractions, giving my subconscious the silence to speak. "Your name, your talent, your life, the simplest person you possess, is granted to alter the heads of nations, to flow the world from the natural and to break the shackles of immortality or, ultimately, to face the trials and perils of the dream you have been granted upon."

Find your silence, connect with yourself and realize your purpose. Use your voice, and use it for love.

MODERN GLASS

Nspire Magazine produces quality stories professionally written, photographed, and delivered in a glossy magazine representing the local market.

"I read your magazine for the first time in a surgical waiting room at KMC. I have to say, not only is it an extremely well done local magazine, but this is one of the best put together magazines I've ever seen. I've now gone through 4 others that I've found, and planned a couple day trips to local waterfalls that I didn't previously know of. Very happy that I found this and will continue to keep reading and enjoying." - Andre W.

"I found your magazine in the Doctor's office the other day. I read some of it while I was there, but did not finish it. So the nice receptionist said I could take one home. It was so interesting. My husband and I have lived in Coeur d'Alene our entire lives. I was fascinated with the stories about some of the mountain lakes. We can hardly wait to go and see them. I absolutely love your magazine." - Sincerely, Joyce K.

"The photography is excellent work through out. The articles are so well written that I could smell the pine needles and hear the trickling water and I'm pretty sure a bug went up my nose. Seriously, Final Impression was the cherry on top for me, I found it breathtaking on so many levels." - Kathy J.L.

"Well done publication! Phenomenal layouts and great articles. Represents this area authentically and with smart writing. I appreciate the fact you publish locally and support our community businesses and organizations." - Tami M.

"Nspire Magazine is the only magazine in on my coffee table!" - Amanda M.
